Diagraph at New Political Headquarters Attributed to Factional Fight

The Committee of 48, the new political party being formed, found that all its proceedings at last night's meeting in the Niles Building, No. 15 Court square, had been overheard by the use of the diagraph.

At the conclusion of the meeting one of the members noticed two tiny metal discs under the transom over the door. He pointed them out and the members looked at them, along the hall until it entered the office of Detective J. W. Glendon on the second floor.

Glendon refused to tell the "Forty-Eighters" by whom he was employed.

The People Are Winning

At legislative hearings we said that banks should pay more interest to savings depositors. We were scored up hill and down dale by some bankers for telling the truth.

It is a funny world. Those who criticized us most are now paying even though a short while ago they said it couldn't be done. It has been done by giving a little less to stockholders and a little more to savings depositors.

Now the next thing and the right thing to do is for these bankers to do as we are doing—pay interest monthly and allow withdrawals practically without the loss of interest.

Banks whose deposits go on interest monthly or whose interest starts on a certain day in the month do not pay interest monthly, and do not allow withdrawals practically without the loss of interest.

They still tie up your deposits for three or six months before paying any interest.

We don't tie up your money. We let you withdraw your money at any time practically without loss of interest, and we pay and compound interest monthly.

The banks are only half way on our band wagon. To get all the way on they should pay interest monthly, and then by that time, maybe, we will be able, from our own earnings, by extra dividends, to pay and still be a lap ahead.

LIVING COSTS 95 P. C.

More wheat, but the AMAZING Price Is Higher PROFITS IN WOOL

Washington, April 29.—The high cost of living, hiding behind the wall of supply and demand, may withstand attacks for some time yet, according to official statistics.

Reports today by experts working under H. L. Livingston, chief of the Bureau of Markets, show that two of three food staples, bread stuffs and potatoes, are short of last year's supply, but with higher prices for all three. The decrease is in meat and potatoes.

There is an increase of about 54,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, and when the July harvest is in, there may be a carry-over from last season of 14,000,000 bushels, bureau of markets statistics show. The flour production to April 1, is 390,125,000 barrels against 384,000,000 last year.

Not only wheat production, but meat supplies are short, according to bureau of markets experts. While the 1919 supply of livestock was a record, experts said a livestock run of this size "never before yielded as little beef."

Instead of being on indication of plenty, it was pointed out that drought conditions forced heavy shipments.

ELLIS URGES PASSAGE OF HAYS RENT BILL

Chairman Herbert E. Ellis of the Mayor's Committee on Rents and Housing, declared after listening to testimony on rent raising before that body today that there was urgent need for the immediate passage of the Hays rent bill by the Legislature.

The chairman's remarks followed a clash with Philip Zisman, a Roxbury landlord, Zisman challenged the right and power of the committee to summon him, and announced his intention of ejecting tenants who complained of his treatment.

Testimony was introduced showing that on an original investment of $100 a $12,500 property, the landlord was getting $280 clear profit, or more than 25 per cent. interest.

Price of Clothing Shows the Greatest Increase: Food-stuffs Come Next

Grave and sensational new figures showing the constantly increasing cost of living, even during the past few months, were made public today. Between November, 1919, and March, 1920, the American citizen had his cost of living raised 7 per cent. on top of the burden under which he was already groaning.

These figures show that while the cost of the federal and State governments have been talking about cutting the cost of living, it has gone up steadily.

It now costs the American citizen 35 per cent. more to live than it did in 1914, aside from pay taxes, he may have to pay as an individual, twenty-one per cent. of this burden has been shouldered on the shoulders of the American public within the past year.

These astounding figures come on top of a series of amazing corporate reports of earnings. The series was culminated within a few days by the report of the American Woolen Company.

VOLE INVEST TO BE DECISIVE

Indiana and California Decide Fate of Hoover and Harding Next Tuesday

Washington, April 28.—Two candidates, Herbert C. Hoover and Senator Warren G. Harding, next Tuesday will reach a decisive stage in their respective campaigns for the Republican nomination, according to non-partisan opinion here.

Hoover and Senator Hiram W. Johnson will fight it out in the primaries of their native state of California, while Senator Harding will come to grips on the same day with both Johnson and Leonard Wood at the Indiana State convention.

As a result of preliminary Wood and Johnson will match their strength Monday in Maryland, on which day the Blue-white primaries will be held. Johnson has swept across the State in a victorious campaign, and on Tuesday Senator William K. Borah of Idaho will stand up to the Johnson campaign at Baltimore.

The main center of Republican interest is further West. The three-cornered fight in Indiana is of the quarter kind and when the smoke of the State convention clears next Tuesday there may be one of two candidates emerging.

In Republican circles it is felt that Senator Harding's candidacy will prove to be crucial, and that he will enter the fray somewhat handicapped by his small plurality to his own State of Ohio.

Hoover is not officially entered in the Indiana contest. However, the former food administrator has been without his fight on Wednesday. He will have a man's size job on his hands in California, where, in a State-wide primary, he and the other main contender, Johnson, have the entire landscape to themselves.

Some weeks ago there were predictions of Hoover's carrying the State, but the Johnson victories and near victories have changed the Johnson attack into the advantage seems to be on his side.

The Johnson faction has charged Hoover with being more British than American, and a foe to the farmer.

But the Hoovers have called Johnson a friend of the "radicals" and "Bolsheviks," pro-Germans and anti-American allies.

Senator Reed May Go to Convention on Proxy

St. Louis, April 28.—If Senator James A. Reed wants to participate in the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco, he can have the proxy of Michael J. Whelan, one of the two delegates sent to the Cleveland Hotel, St. Louis, according to Phil Dwyer, twenty-second Ward committeeman and member of the Democratic Congressional Committee of the Cleveland district.

Dwyer says that Whelan will be "disqualified" to give Reed's proxy, provided Reed wants to attend the convention and take part in its deliberations. Reed's friends say that president for the use of proxies in the Democratic National Convention was set when William J. Bryan participated in the Baltimore convention on a proxy. They also cite other instances.

Reed was defeated for delegate for the Fifth Missouri District.

Harding Carried Ohio by 17,000 Over Wood

Columbus, O., April 28.—Complete unofficial returns from eighty-three out of ninety-eight counties and partial returns from the other five show that Senator Warren G. Harding carried Tuesday's presidential preference election in Ohio by a plurality of 17,000 over Leonard Wood. The vote was Harding, 123,844, and Wood, 112,229.

The final count probably will show the forty-eight delegates going to the Chicago convention, along as follows: Harding, 40; Wood, 5.

READY FRIDAY MORNING

DRASTIC MARKDOWNS

On New Spring Merchandise in Nearly Every Department

Why?

Frankly speaking an overstocked condition has been the sole cause for these markdowns. Large purchases were made last fall and early this spring for this season's business. Unavoidable conditions have had their effect on delaying shipments of merchandise that should have been sold during the past month. In order to prepare for the purchasing of seasonal summer merchandise we have decided to reduce stocks in all departments where they were heavy, regardless of cost or present replacement value!

Every piece of merchandise on sale is new and wanted goods, a great deal having been purchased early last year, originally bearing a low price. Every New Englander should plan to visit this store. Friday and Saturday as the lots at such low prices will not last long.

Our policy of new and up-to-date merchandise at all times has been one of the fundamental reasons for these radical markdowns.

RENEWS STEEL TRUST FIGHT

Government Attacks Supreme Court's Decision and Asks Reopening of Case

Washington, April 28.—The government has asked the Supreme Court to reopen the Steel Trust case. In the petition it severely attacked the recent decision by the United States Steel Corporation was declared not a trust within the meaning of the Sherman law. Severe criticism of the court's view was frankly expressed in the petition filed by the Department of Justice. It was declared that if the United States Steel Corporation was a criminal combination in 1901, which it may be the opinion apparently one case, it is a criminal combination now. No criminal should be exonerated, the position continues, because he makes wise use of property as acquired, and no criminal combination should now be exempted from the anti-trust act because after having whittled its unlawful ends it merely maintains the fruits of its illegal acts without attempting to commit new ones.

The government further contends that the court's decision was not concurred in by a majority of the court, only four of the nine members signing the majority opinion. It also attacks the court's position that mere size does not constitute violation of the Sherman law. The immediate ground for the petition was the court's decision on Monday ordering dissolution of the Reading Railroad combination, with which the steel decision was in direct conflict, according to the government brief.

Sing Sing "Sunshine" Convict Pardoned

Oswining, N. Y., April 28.—Sing Sing Prison lost a good fellow today. He is William Perry, a life prisoner, whose sentence was commuted by Governor Smith. He returned to New York after fifteen years' absence.

When his petition went to the Governor he had everybody in the prison from the warden down to the last incommunicado pulling for him. His story made him a falling good humor and his personal optimism were regarded as a greater influence for good than the work of all the prison welfare agencies.

Perry, who has been the warden's "crazy" since he was an "inmate" who had been in the prison for more than twelve years with the prison of the State and the Rev. William E. Chubb, prison chaplain. Perry was presented with a gift by the prison officials.

HOUSE PASSES 2.75 BEER BILL

Opponents Charge Measure Inspired by Brewers' Vote

Stood 145 to 87
After three hours of lively debate the bill permitting the manufacture and sale of light wine and beer not to contain more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol was ordered to a third reading and passed by the Massachusetts House of Representatives, the vote standing 145 to 87.
Previous to the vote ordering the measure to a third reading, opponents of the bill charged that it was inspired by the brewers and distillers and that it had been passed in view of the fact that no decision had been made by the United States Supreme Court on the validity of the Volstead act.
The bill was passed to be engrossed under suspension of the House rules.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

- (1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
- (2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
- (3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly

- as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
- (4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
- (5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Now Let's Bring Our Country Back to Sanity

Read these wise words of Premier Nitti—Italy's truly great statesman:

What Europe needs is a state of mind. Peace and war are not only material facts, they are states of mind. If two men look at each other with murder in their hearts they may try to kill each other; but if one looks toward the other with a certain diffidence and smiles they may be friends. All the nations of Europe have three or four difficult years ahead. They must smile at one another and work together.

The allies for two reasons must be fair and just toward Germany. The first is that it is only by doing so we can expect her to cultivate that mental attitude of peace that will fashion her future relations with the rest of the world. The second is that if the allies do not treat Germany reasonably they will fall out among themselves. Germany, who lost the war, who was responsible for the war, must respect the treaty, but the allies ought to apply it not only in a spirit of justice but in a spirit of charity. Germany can be asked sacrifices that she can afford, but she should not be asked that which would prevent her from returning again to normal economic life, and thus bring despair and revolution. The destiny of every country, whether victor or vanquished, is interrelated and the fall of one to ruin will bring down the others.

It is most important to resume relations with Russia. We will not get straight again until we have done so. All Europe refuses to work and yet demands better conditions. If Europe does not get to work it is lost.

We must give Russia security that we bear her no ill feeling. At the same time Russia must guarantee us that she will not interfere with our internal policy, do we will not interfere with Russia's. I believe we will get very little food or raw materials from Russia now, but after a couple of years of commercial exchange we will be able to get more from her.

In essence, these statesmanlike utterances of the Italian Premier repeat the views which the American long ago urged, which the American over and over again expressed while the conference of Paris was in session.

And now look at the situation in which the world has been left by the tragical fiasco at Versailles, and at the different results which a return to sanity has developed at San Remo.

It has been only ten months since the Treaty of Versailles was signed, and today the "immortal document," as Mr. Wilson styled it, has been junked by the mere force of the world's belated sense.

Stripped of the verbiage which diplomats so needlessly use, the new treaty terms agreed upon at San Remo, and to be confirmed within a few weeks at Brussels, scrap the League of Nations covenants and make new and more reasonable peace settlements between the nations of Europe.

Germany is no longer to be treated as an outlaw. The German Chancellor will be one of the new "Big Four" who will meet at Brussels to fix the indemnity. That indemnity will be within the power of the German Republic to pay, without condemning the German people to industrial slavery. The French troops must be withdrawn from the German territory they have illegally invaded, and the German Republic is to maintain a sufficient army to police its own territory and guard its own borders.

The Adriatic dispute is settled by a compromise, which will again have to be adjusted, but which will serve well enough temporarily.

The Turkish Government will nominally remain in Constantinople, though really Turkey will be under British, French and Italian supervision. The internationalization of the Dardanelles will, no doubt, eventually come about, with the consent of the Russian Soviet Republic.

The Soviet Republic is to be recognized officially—as it should have been recognized a year ago by the Paris Conference. The rest of Europe will be doing business with Russia in a few weeks. The new diplomacy of common sense has triumphed over the hysterical and tragical diplomacy of Versailles.

The credit of this return to diplomatic sanity is due chiefly to the high statesmanship of Nitti.

The Italian Premier has done more to re-establish real peace and to bring hope to Europe in one short week at San Remo than the Paris Conference accomplished in months of wearisome and futile and incompetent debate.

It is one of the ludicrous recollections of the past few months that Mr. Wilson actually proposed to appeal to the Italian people to support him against their Premier—the only really great statesman, as it turns out, that the war produced.

The real treaty of peace, which history will recognize, is the treaty of San Remo. In that settlement America has had no part, and it is well that it had not.

The boundaries of European nationalities and kindred European questions are no concern of ours. Our war was with Germany, and with Germany only.

That war actually ended nearly eighteen months ago, and should have officially ended a year ago.

The vanity and stubbornness of one man still keep us in the ridiculous position of being at war with the German Republic, though we declared war upon the vanished German Imperial Government, and still keep us in the more ridiculous position of refusing to recognize that there is a Russian Republic—though with the sole exception of the British Government, the Russian Republic Government is the most powerful and altogether the most stable government in Europe.

Under these new conditions it is high time that the Congress of the United States asserted its undoubted authority and put an end to this anomalous, ridiculous and injurious condition of affairs.

The Congress should at once pass two joint resolutions—one declaring the former state of war with the German Imperial Government to be no longer existent, and the other extending recognition to the Russian Republic and ordering the withdrawal of any executive hindrances of trade between Russia and America.

If we cannot find any original commensurate in our diplomatic conduct, let us at least have enough good sense to follow the broad statesmanship and wise counsel and example of the great Premier whose utterances and achievements have brought such lasting renown to the name of Italy.

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—Will you help me out? I am engaged to a young lady—a business woman—who is also in love with her work. She views the necessary obligations of housework with some repugnance, and recently, in a moment of semi-despair, asked me to write her a poem on the joys, or whatever they are, of housework. I cannot make good on the order. Therefore, my request already made.

I shall greatly appreciate compliance through your column. GEORGE L. S.

MY DEAR GEORGE. It's a big order. AND I wouldn't try to fill it. EXCEPT for the reason. THAT JUST yesterday, ONE LEONARD Gallagher, A THEATRICAL MAN, AND MY humble self, HELPED ONE JIM Peden, A FRIEND OF OURS, TO SETTLE A HOUSE, INTO WHICH they'd moved. AND AT dinner time, THERE were eight of us WHO HAD to be fed, AND THE women cooked, AND WE all of us ate, AND WHEN we were through, THIS GALLAGHER person, SAID HE'd wash the dishes, IF I would wipe, AND I said I would, AND I'm telling you, GEORGE, THAT THIS Peden fellow, HAS MORE chinaware, AND POTS AND PANS, AND KETTLES and things, THAN WE'VE ever bought, IN TWENTY-THREE years, AND THEY'd dirtied them all, AND WHILE we worked, THE REST of the folks, WERE all sitting down, IN THE living room, ENJOYING THEMSELVES, AND TALKING AWAY, AND WE couldn't hear, AND I said to Leonard,

Idea of Union of Middle Classes Rapidly Gains in Favor

THE great middle class of America is well on its way to forming a union of its own. Clerks, office workers, business men—the great army of "white collar" workers—are beginning to realize that they must adopt some means of protection against strikes which tie up transportation, cut off telephone service, paralyze street car traffic and otherwise inconvenience the public.

Recently the country was swept by an "outlaw" railroad strike, which tied up business from California to Maine, causing suffering and monetary loss to thousands.

Its result has been to set the public thinking as to what can be done to safeguard the American public from a repetition of this sort of thing, which next time might prove much more serious.

The idea of national preparedness for industrial emergencies has sprung up all over the country. College students, women, members of the great middle class generally, formed themselves into volunteer organizations for keeping moving the abandoned wheels of industry.

The subject is discussed in all the magazines, and the Magazine Section of Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The day of the temperamental prima donna seems to have passed. No less a personage than Mrs. Terazzini was recently "fired" from a musical engagement because she allowed herself to indulge in a fit of mental balkiness. Temperament, according to the special article in Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser, has no place any more in the world of music.

Mrs. Herbert Richter, daughter of the well-known banker and ship owner, Edward X. Richter of New York and elsewhere, has a very unweathly lover. She has had to get rid of him, and has had to appeal to the law for assistance.

Mrs. Richter, better known as Juliet Bretnun, came into the spotlight some years ago when she married her father's earl, Mr. Rie-kleit, later separating from him. Some months ago she began to receive letters—many of them from a young man who signed his name J. N. Redman.

They came from all parts of the country, and proved very annoying to the heiress, who was married two years ago to Herbert Richter.

So the police took a hand. They found that the writer was a young American soldier whose interest in Mrs. Richter in the Magazine Section of Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

A TEACHER WHO GIVES ALL HER LIFE

By Winifred Black

O, how I love my teacher!

"And how I wish my teacher loved me!"

That's what I keep thinking all the time, when I read a letter that lies here on my desk. It's from a teacher, and she's an old maid, she says, and very odd and peculiar, and nobody likes her very well—but the children.

And she doesn't care much for anybody—but the children.

Grown people bow her to death. Old people are so indifferent, and young people are so selfish, and middle-aged people are such eccentrics, she says.

But children—ah, children! They're like clear pools of clean water in the brown forest, or like fresh running streams, so gay, so trusting, so loyal, so eager and so loving.

When she is in the schoolroom she doesn't feel like an old maid at all, she says.

She doesn't feel like anything but just a happy human being, with a lot of loving little friends around her. And she loves to tell them things. Nice, interesting things about moorhats and how they live, and little owls with big eyes that don't see much, and foxes with three-cornered faces and bushy tails.

Things about the far countries, she loves to tell them—stories of the old wars, when ancient kings stretched out their hands and tried to rule the earth.

Queen?—yes, I suppose she is, queer, this woman, with the heart of a child and the soul of a poet. I wish we had a few more like her in our schools today.

She lives, not in the world, mean, little rivalries of her school, mean, little life today, but in the great thoughts of the great past; she walks with poets and with prophets. Her heart sings with the song of Mistsman, and her heart beats to the tune of old cadences long since forgot by ordinary mortals.

Teaching is an inspired art, and this woman has it. Congratulations, children; you who are fortunate enough to have her take you by the hand and show you the beauties of the ages! Listen to her well, for your whole lives will be different because of an old maid school teacher," who once loved to teach.

Reverend of Indiana, once Senator, dreams a dream not unlike some that anything composed since Tacitus wrote his powerful Merve d'Albanus. Alas! "during the horror of a profound night," he saw his mother "beaten down to pieces by dogs in the street."

Reverend dreams fifteen million Americans out of work and much turmoil.

There would be fifteen million Americans idle. The country is not going crazy.

But there will be turmoil and trouble unless something is done. Bottom and middle of the social pie go back to doing a day's work in a day.

It took sixty years for employers here to realize that to teach something to labor that builds things.

It should not take sixty years for labor to realize that it owes something to the employer. It must make money accumulated something by cunning, sometimes by intelligence, nearly always by self-interest.

The most dangerous folly in America is the idea of many workers that when they do a half day's work they cheat the employer and help fellow workers to a job.

They cheat themselves, putting up the high cost of living and preparing a day of reckoning. We shall see fifteen million men idle at one time, but we shall see many bread lines formed unless the day once more produces a day's work. And the workers, not the employers, will be in the bread lines.

The women of the country should impress upon their husbands, hands and brothers and sons that men ignore.

A Big New Baby
The 2,000 Guineas
One Terrible Dream
Easier Divorce
—By Arthur Brisbane
Copyright, 1920.

Yesterday, in his last speech in Maryland, Johnson said: "Thank God, after a year's debate, we have made it respectable to be Americans again in this country. The American in which I believe would maintain America as the arbiter of her own destiny."

What Americans think of Johnson they showed again in New Jersey yesterday. The corporation that hate him have great power in New Jersey, which is largely an annex of its corporations.

Yet within a few votes Johnson won their favorite State from the corporations.

Attention was called recently to the birth of a baby gigantically in New York. Soon you will learn of another birth, more important, to play this time, but a giant baby.

Several great steel companies are to be united to compete with the great steel company for which J. Edgar Hoover was born, and Judge Gray from the beginning, financial trained nurse.

It will be an interesting birth, an interesting trust infant, if it comes safely into the world. It will be very interesting in the history of the United States.

Will it fight with its big half-brother, the United States Steel Corporation, or will this big company pay say to the little baby trust, "The world is large enough for three and now, let's have a friendly talk?"

Yesterday the Derby favorite won the 2,000 Guineas. That doesn't mean much in America, in England it means more to signify out of a hundred that the German settlement by the Allies.

"The Derby favorite" is the horse expected to win the Derby race. The 2,000 Guineas is the most important race preceding "the Derby run on June 2."

Let us not, however, scorn the English. Many of our newspapers recently printed a picture of Jack Dempsey's fist, which was on the same paper on the same day had printed a picture, life-size, of Herbert Spencer, who was born one hundred years ago, at least 100 years ago. American boys have studied Dempsey's fist for one that studied Spencer's forehead.

Making over mother's dress for daughter—Fashion Headlines.

More these days of making over daughter's dress for mother.

War Department has mentioned this army mule in a citation. Haven't seen the citation, but it probably reads, "The army mule is a good troop animal."

WHOOPE WHEN YOU WIN

When you have a certain thing to do, do you bend all your energies toward accomplishing it, or do you spend so much time talking about it that you are fatigued and nervous, and unable to get down to solid effort?

Why not work first and talk afterward?

If you spent as much time working to complete your plans as you do telling them over to your friends you would get farther on the road to the place you want to be.

You know it is possible to get so tired discussing the different phases of future possibilities that you miss the present opportunities.

It is quite right to have plans for the future, but keep some of them under your own hat until you see they are assured as to success, then others will not have a chance to sink your failures.

Don't get winded in the first tryout.

Economize on your physical expenditure, which means control your impulses and desires, to make them serve your purpose in the best way possible, and when success is assured it will be time enough to whoop around about it.
